Rican Sharks, led by Bernardo. Their hatred escalates to a point where neither can coexist with any form of understanding. But when Riff's best friend (and former Jet) Tony and Bernardo's younger sister Maria meet at a dance, no one can do anything to stop their love.

Maria and Tony begin meeting in secret, planning to run away. Then the Sharks and Jets plan a rumble under the highway - whoever wins gains control of the streets. Maria sends Tony to stop it, hoping it can end the violence. It goes terribly wrong, and before the lovers know what's happened, tragedy strikes and doesn't stop until the climactic and heartbreaking ending. The film ranks 41st on the American Film Institutes top movies, and stars Natalie Wood, Richard Beymer, Russ Tamblyn, Rita Moreno, George Chakiris. Jerome Robbins and Robert Wise directed the film.

The mish-mashed group of individuals includes Claire Trevor as Dallas, an outcast prostitute, Thomas Mitchell as alcoholic Doc Boone, mother-to-be Lucy Mallory, played by Louise Platt, and Donald Meek a whiskey salesman Samuel Peacock.

Drama runs high in this intense western filled with action and tension. The film received nominations for Best Picture, Director, Cinematography, and Film Editing while winning Best Music Scoring, and Thomas Mitchell earned Best Supporting actor for the film. Orson Welles prepped for Citizen Kane by watching Stagecoach more than 40 times. The film is regarded as one of the most influential and important western movies of all time. Unfortunately the original film negatives have been lost, but John Wayne retained a single positive print which had never been used which he permitted in 1970 to be used to restore the film and create a new negative.
